Voice is a six-week series of free creative writing workshops for people of colour that explore the creative voice. Aimed to promote wellbeing through creativity, the workshops will look at the works of people of colour and consist of curated sessions exploring the theme of voice through poetry and prose.

We welcome all abilities and you do not need to be able to make every session to attend, though the workshops are designed to be a development process. If you'd like to come along to a session, please register via Eventbrite or email us as spaces are limited. Please don't hesitate to contact us if you have any queries.
